

As a consequence of the temporary international mail service suspension by the United States Postal Service, certain clients of Wells Fargo Advisors and its correspondents who: (1) have mailing addresses located in certain jurisdictions outside of the United States; and (2) have not yet consented to electronic delivery of account information (“Affected Recipients”) may experience delays or disruption in receiving important information and documents related to their accounts (“Impacted International Mailings”).

The following list details the specific types of Impacted International Mailings that may be delayed or suspended for Affected Recipients due to the temporary international mail services suspension:

Mailing Type	Examples of Mailing Type
Customer Account and Activity Information	Transaction confirmations and/or alternative periodic reporting (SEC Rule 10b-10); Monthly or quarterly account statements, including statements with respect to free credit balances, Asset movement notifications, ACATs notifications.
Registered Fund Information	Registered investment company reports to shareholders, prospectuses and prospectus supplements for funds and registered insurance products.
Account Disclosures	Form ADV brochures (summary of material changes) and supplements, Form CRS, Reg BI Disclosure, Reg BI Supplemental Mailing, Cash Sweep Disclosure, margin disclosure, options disclosure supplement, proxies, schedule of fees disclosure.
Account-Related Correspondence, Notices and Information	Tax Forms, COVID-19 Notifications, welcome letters, exit letters, account statements changes to books and records (i.e. investment objective changes, beneficial owner changes, beneficiary updates, adding or removing a power of attorney) SIPC information, privacy notice.